STEPHENSON'S ORDERS

Instructed to Occupy the Government Buildings at Corinto.

The Lives, Private Property and Trade of All Foreigners Will

A special cable dispatch to the New York Herald from Managua, Nicaragua, says: Minister of Foreign Affairs Matus furshes a copy of the dispatch received by the Nicaraguan government from Admira nson of the British fleet of warships now at Corinto. This dispatch reads:

"Having received instructions from he majesty's government to hand you the eccompanying dispatch frim Lord Kimberley, her majesty's principal secretary of state for foreign affairs, I have the honor to present your excellency, Commander Stokes of H. M. S. the Royal Arthur, who is the bearer of this dispatch, together with a letter and proclamation from me.

"I have the honor to inform your excel kncy that unless I receive a reply within three days from date, containing the full compliance of the Nicaraguan government with the demands contained in Lord Kimberley's dispatch, or, in the event of no answer being received within the time fixed, or if the answer is unsatisfactory, I shall at once land an armed force, taking military control of Corinto, by occupying the custom house and other government ernor of the port.

"The lives, private property and trade of all foreigners will be respected. In the event of any resistance or disturbences arising, I shall use the force at my disposal maintain order. "A copy of the accompanying proclama-tion will be issued to each official in Cor-into, both Nicaraguan and foreign, on my taking possession of the place."

Admiral Stephenson's Proclamation.

The proclamation referred to says: Whereas, the Nicaraguan governmen aving unlawfully seized the person of her Britannic majesty's vice consul, at Blue fields, together with some twenty British subjects, and confined in the town of Managua, or expelled them from Nicaraguan territory, I have, in consequence, received ter-itory, I have, in consequence, received crders from her majesty's government to occupy the town of Corinto and seize all vessels carrying the Nicaraguan flag, and hold the same until such time as the Nicaraguan government has compiled with the demands of the British government.

"Be it known that during the occupation of Corinto the lives, private property and trade of all foreigners will be respected, and the force now landed will occupy only government buildings. In the event of any tesistance or disturbance arising, I shall be compelled to use the means at my disposal to maintain order. I have constituted Capt. Frederick Percival French of the Royal Arthur governor of the port.

American Vessels at Hand.

The steamer Colina, which has arrived in Corinto, reports that she met a fleet of four American warships on the way to Corinto. This news is very gratifying to the Nicaraguan government, which, with the Nicaraguan people, hopes the presence of the United States vessels will relieve the country from the humiliation threatened by Great Britain.

A Description of Corinto. Corinto, the center of interest in Nicaragua at present, is the best port of the Central American states on the Pacific coast. It is most important to Nicaragua, as it is the terminus of the line of the Cen tral railroad. It is a very old place and was formerly called Raelejo. This was one of the best Spanish-American harbors in the old days, but it is becoming filled up, and is now somewhat smaller as to anchorage. There is no difficulty, however, in the entrance, and there is a depth of eighteen feet of water in the harbor at low tide. Between the island of Cardon and the point of Castanones there is a dangerous bar. The port of San Juan del Sur has a harbor of average size, and there is sufficiently good anchorage. It is filling with sand, however, and the entrance is becoming choked, making shipping more difficult. San Juan del Sur is in communication with Lake Nicaragua by a macadam road built by the New York and California Transit Company. tral railroad. It is a very old place and were $6,006,805, while all imports to other points did not exceed $500,000. It is evident from this why the British chose Corinto from this why the British chose Corinto for their stroke. Almost one-half of the imports at Corinto are from Great Britain, so that the British seizure of the custom houses will result in their receiving the customs dues from British merchant ships. The British imports for 1891-'92 were $2,-132,601; those of the United States came second at $1,497,650; Germany, $1,042,055; France, $998,144. The rest of the import trade was with neighboring South and Central American countries. The imports of San Juan del Sur were $138,820. As the Corinto imports average about $500,000 monthly, it would not take long for Great Britain to appropriate the $75,000 indemnity demanded. The tariff rates of Nicaragua are such that the $6,006,805 of imports in 1891 yielded $1,058,913 in customs duties. Most of this was collected at Corinto. At this rate the receipts at Corinto would reach $75,000 within thirty days, unless commerce was diverted to other ports.

The Heaviest Import Point. Corinto is the heaviest import point in Nicaragua. The imports there for 1891-'92

It is a significant fact that the largest part of Nicaragua's foreign debt is represented by bonds held in London, and payable there in 1919. This foreign debt aggregates $2,105,227. The London holders have thus far received their interest on the bonds very promptly. If, however, Nicaragua is crippled by the seizure of her customs receipts, it may react by a failure to meet the interest on the bonds held in London.

Diplomats Exercised. for their stroke. Almost one-half of the Diplomats Exercised.

The diplomatic representatives of Central and South American countries are very much exercised over the report that Great Britain will exert force, if necessary, to compel Nicaragua to meet interest pay-ments on her foreign debt, represented mainly by bonds held in England. They fear, it is said, that such a course would presage an endless amount of trouble for them in the future. Their idea is that once Great Britain has been permitted without interference to collect the special Hatch indemnity she will avail herself of the excuse offered by the failure of Nicaragua to meet her interest payments on foreign debt to assume the task of collecting this forcibly in the same manner, notwithstanding the fact that the failure may be brought about by her own seizure of the customs receipts, which were to be applied to the payment of this interest. Of course this would necessitate the occupation of Corinto after the original indemnity shall have been collected, which mainly by bonds held in England. They pation of Corinto after the original indemnity shall have been collected, which would only add to the financial distress of Nicaragua, and should she be then unable, as seems likely, to meet this last demand the occupation may be prolonged so indefinitely as to amount to a permanent occupation of the territory. This is the reasoning of the South Americans, and they find individual cause for apprehension in the fact that almost all of these little republics owe sums of money to European bondholders on account of interest or principal of national debts, and they fear that for the first time the principle may be laid down and enforced that a European government may assume the collection of debts owing to its citizens as individuals and not to the European nation, a doctrine which, they and enforced that a European government may assume the collection of debts owing to its citizens as individuals and not to the European nation, a Joetrine which, they assert, would be particularly obnoxious if applied to some of the states of the Amerian base of the states of the Amerian Definition of the states of the s can Union which have defaulted in their debts to foreign bondholders.

The outcome of this Nicaraguan incident is also felt by the same diplomatists to be full of significance to Yenezuela, and it is feared by them that having once driven in the wedge Great Britain can scarcely be expected to referring from pressing forward. wedge Great Britain can scarcely be expected to refrain from pressing forward with very vigorous measures in the matter of the Venezuelan boundary dispute and at once establishing herself as the mistress of

It is felt here that the present situation is one justifying apprehension and anxiety on part of our own government. While it is not expected that the Nicaraguan government will offer any armed resistence to the landing of the British forces still it is feared that during the time the still it is reared and a furing the time the town of Corinto is occupied by the foreigners the natives may be restrained with difficulty, and the close contact into which the two discordant elements will certainly be brought might at any moment lead to an outbreak, winding up in a general war. The tenure of the present Nicaraguan government is none too secure, and it is felt that it would be expecting almost too much from it to hope that it could resist successfully an impulse of the people toward war, even should the cause be without probable success for their side in the end. It is evident that our State Department has not lost sight of this possibility, for Secretary Gresham has been in consultation with the President and the Nicaraguan minister on the subject, and it is believed that he has been using his best efforts to prevent a resort to extremes by intimating that the indemnity had better be paid. town of Corinto is occupied by the foreign manager of the Washington bas ball club had no occasion, after the conclusion of yesterday's game with the Phila delphia nine, for complaining that luck was against the local aggregation, for if ever a game was won by sheer good luck it was that of yesterday. Not only did the Philadelphia men outbat the locals almost 2 to 1, but they earned every run, and played with but a single error, and that misplay did not affect the result. Willie McGill, the south paw artist of the visitors, officiated, and to him, more than to anything else, is attributable the defeat of his club, saven locals reaching first because of tring else, is attributable the defeat of his club, seven locals reaching first because of his inability to locate the home plate.

Nevertheless, the home team deserved its victory, and when the heart-breaking contest was over the cheers of exultation were no more numerous than those of genuine relief. Stocksdale pitched for the home club until the eighth inning, when, having perceptibly weakened, Manager Schmelz wisely relieved him, directing Malarkey, the Virginia League man, to take his place. The score then stood 5 to 4 in favor of the Washington men.

Washington men.

Hallman, the first visitor up in the eighth, took first on balls, and then Sullivan bunted safely. Buckley endeavored to follow suit, but forced Hallman at third. McGill was thrown out at first, and a mighty cheer of relief went up when the Virginia recruit struck out Hamilton.

The locals could not score in the pinth

The locals could not score in the ninth, and Boyle, first up for the Phillies, fanned. Cross hit to center, but died a moment later when he endeavored to purloin second. Delehanty was beseeched by his fellows to do or die, and he found the latter the easter, being thrown out at first by Crooks.

lows to do or die, and he found the latter the easter, being thrown out at first by Crooks.

The Washington warriors scored in the first, Nicholson going to first on balls, second on Joyce's fly to Delehanty, and home on Abbey's double down the left foul line. In the fourth Schlach died at the plate while endeavoring to stretch a triple into a homer, when Joxee, should have kept him at third. Hassawar took first on balls, as did McGuire, and on Cartwright's hit to center the lanky William scored, McGuire taking second. Crooks was the third man to reach first on bells. Stocksdale hit to right, scoring McGuire and Cartwright, and Nicholson sacrified to Hamilton, bringing in Crooks. Joyce' then struek out.

The Phillies made their first run in the fifth, Buckley forcing Sullivan, and scoring on Hamilton's donale to left, which Joyce fund too swift to hold. In the seventh Stocksdale weakened, and the visitors scored three times. Hallman hit over Abbey for a triple, and scoring a moment later, when Sullivan died at first, McGuire refusing to go up behind the plate. Buckley went out at first, and then McGill hit to center, reaching second when the ball slirped past Abbey. Hamilton hit to center, McGill scoring, and Hamilton stole second. Boyle's hit to center brought him in, and Cross hit to center, Boyle going to third. Stocksdale wisely gave Delehanty first, and then big Thompson ended the agony by flying to Selbach. Score:

Daily Examples of Jackson City's Want of Character. When Inspector Hollinberger of this city a party of officers to Jackson City nearly three weeks ago, and succeeded in capturing one of the alleged safe-blowers, it was hought that the gamblers and crooks at that lawless settlement would become less bold for a while at least, but they seem to have made a fresh start, and not only rob persons who visit the dives of their own ecord, but are sending out steerers to bring them in. The experience of Mr. Tul loch of New York, as published in yesterday's Star, is only one of many similar cases that have happened across the river where such people have full sway. These steerers wait about the railroad track and catch persons who wait there to return on trains. Such was the case with return on trains. Such was the case with Mr. Tulloch. He was waiting for a train when a stranger invited him in a saloon to take a drink. The train was not due for some time, and the New Yorker was finally induced to go with the stranger and drink a glass of beer. Then came the old, old story. There was a confederate in the saloon, and it required the throwing of dice to determine which of the Jackson City men should settle for the drinks. Following this came the game of "over and under," and in this the New Yorker lost his $100. The game, he Jeclares, was by no means a square one, and he managed to means a square one, and he managed to get back half his money. This was all done in the daytime, and had it been after dark Mr. Tulloch may have fared much dark Mr. Tulloch may have fared much worse.

The effect of the outlaw races and Jackson City gambling dens is jelt in this city in more ways than one. It is well known that many thieves have made Jackson City their headquarters, and have operated here to the regret of many citizens who have been robbed in various ways. On Pennsylvania avenue, in front of hotels and salcons, the race track touts and followers, ireluding some who are undoubtedly of doubtful reputation, loiter and indulge in language calculated to insult or shock any respectable person. At intervals the police declare war on these people, and make them scarce for a few days, but none of them have been arrested for some time, and they are thicker now than they have been for weeks. It is the intention of the police to make a move against these people in the near future, and perhaps it will have the effect of keeping many of them over the river.
